DEDICATION

MR. DAVID DONAVEL

The yearbook dedication is awarded every year to the person who has contributed most to the senior class; a person who has meant the most to the students themselves. This year we dedicate the yearbook to David F. Donavel.

Ever since the Fall of 1976, Masconomet has been blessed by the presence of the teacher that many students simply call "Dave". Donavel has brought to Masco many programs that have had a positive effect on the school. He's started the Masco Forum and helped introduce a preparatory S.A.T. course to Masco. Even though Donavel has made many contributions to Masco, his most meaningful is probably his efforts in a program that lasted only two years. It was his hard work that made the Renaissance Program a temporary success.

"From an educational point of view, it is, without a doubt, far superior than what we do now," says Donavel. "We couldn't find one significant weakness."

He also adds, "It gave everybody, both the teachers and the students, more time to focus on our different work. (Teachers) also were able to enjoy improved relationships with the students."

Whether in the Renpro or the Tradpro, all students who have had Donavel are extremely lucky. He brings a different approach to teaching. He stresses that the students should learn on their own rather than simply regurgitate facts given by the teacher. The students have more freedom and his papers don't always have concrete answers. These assignments yield individual responses by causing the students to devise their own opinions and support them.

"I think it's real good when a teacher can disappear from a classroom," says Donavel. "They should nudge the class in a sensible direction, but that's it." When asked how he differs from the other teachers he remarked, "What marks me most distinctly is that I wear the same shoes ever year."

Donavel's influence doesn't stop in the classroom. He has often given advice and guidance outside of school. Even though he refers to his students as "weasels", in reality, he cares about his students. In a very Donavelesque fashion, he made this comparison: "I suppose students at Masco with respect to me are kind of like kids with crooked teeth with respect to the orthodontist."

Donavel knows the magnitude of his job. When asked why he teaches, he responded, "I think I'm good at it. I can't think of work that's more important . . . Besides, I'm never going to be rich anyway."

David Donavel is a friend inside and outside the classroom. Over the four years of our high school career, he has developed a special bond with the class of 1993, taking us under his wing, corrupting our minds as best he could. He has threatened us time after time with his famed claw. Dressed in a baggy sweater and beige corduroys, he has taught his students to teach themselves. When the senior class was asked to comment on Mr. Donavel, they could only compliment him. When he was asked about the senior class, he exclaimed, "What marks this class most distinctly is that a large portion of them have survived . . . "

Thank you, Mr. Donavel. We dedicate this yearbook to you.

"I think I'm good at it. I can't think of work that's more important . . . Besides, I'm never going to be rich anyway."

"A coach can't play on the field; they can only guide the players on the sideline."

WHAT IF . . .

"No one really becomes a fool until they stop asking questions." - Charles Steinmetz

Throughout one's life many choices are made which hold important consequences. It's during the four years of high school that a person begins to make many choices that will have an impact upon their life. One will often look back on their choices and ask "What if"? That is, had a different choice been made, what then would've happened?

no one asked?

Through experience in making such important decisions hopefully we've learned that the best choice isn't always the same for everyone. The path less travelled may often reap the greater rewards. So, feel free to stray from the pack and ask "What if"? . . . . . THEN FIND OUT!!!

SENIOR LIFE

Senior year is like a reward for surviving the first three. Therefore, advantages that come with seniority are many, one of the best being freedom. A way to look at the situation is to imagine that the entire Masconomet student body is a group of convicted criminals. For three years these criminals are held in a maximum security prison, but for the fourth year they are sent to a minimal security facility. Note that they are still behind bars until June, but it's a much easier way to spend the last year of the sentence.

Study halls provide an excellent way for seniors to express their newly acquired rights, well, privileges. Seniors need not attend silent study halls in A-Wing because they have other options. They can go to the cafeteria and congregate with fellow seniors for a chat session, or better than that, if they've got a reliable source of transportation, they may leave the school in search of other activities. One thing seniors don't do, though, is roam the school hallways because, most likely, they'll catch some flack from the new hall monitors.

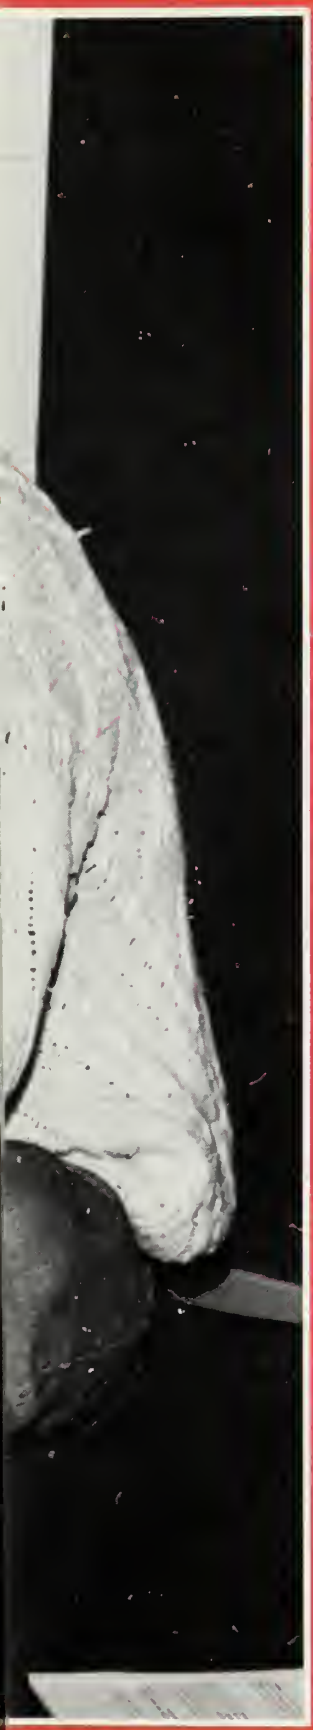
Lunch time also gives the graduating class a fine opportunity to utilize their reward of open campus. If St. Louis Ribs aren't to one's liking, they can go to the Topsfield House o' Pizza and get a roast beef sub as a healthy alternative.

Senior year also allows students to take part in some good, clean fun such as the Halloween Party, Christmas Party, Senior Banquet, and Frolics. These activities give the senior class a chance to bond some more before it partakes in its last Masco school activity ever, Graduation.

With such favorable circumstances throughout the year, seniors usually leave Masco with fond memories of a most enjoyable experience.

Karen, Where are you???

What are you looking at???



Nice driving JAY!!!

JEREMIAH "JAY" MOSS

Do not stand at my grave and weep.
I am not there, I do not sleep
I am a thousands winds that blow;
I am the diamond glints on snow.
I am the sunlight on ripened grain;
I am the gentle autumn's rain.
When you awaken in the morning's hush,
I am the swift uplifting rush of quiet
birds in circled flight.
I am the soft star that shines at night.
Do not stand at my grave and cry,
I am not there, I did not die.

He was in one word "fun".
He was never sad or depressed,
If you wanted to laugh, he was the one to go to and relieve some of your stress.

To all, he was a good friend
Life was simply a game.
And for those who he did offend
They laughed with him just the same.

One would think he was gone
But he is with us everyday
If you doubt it you are deadwrong
In one word, he is Jay.

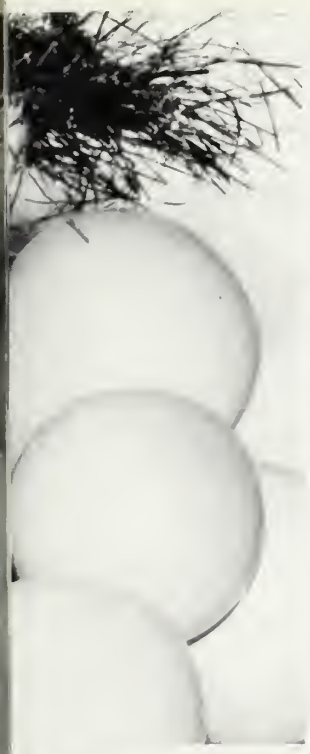
JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

The Junior-Senior Prom was held on May 8, 1992 at the Colonial Hilton in Lynnfield. The "Young and Innocent" theme aptly identified the spirit of the night. It was a night chock full of fun, excitement and even romance for all those who attended. Masco strutted its finest when Cliff Lemire and Stephanie Muka were chosen as King and Queen. Equally as radiant were the King's and Queen's Court. All in all it was a most triumphant night. Hmm . . What if the theme had been Bill and Ted's- No, let's not even think about that.

SENIOR HALLOWEEN PARTY

On the evening of October 23, the school cafeteria was swarming with midgets, butchers, Waldos, and many other frightful characters. However, these dreadful creatures weren't what they seemed to be, for they were just the wild and crazy seniors of Masconomet who had come together in order to observe All Hallow's Eve. After cuttin' the rug for a couple hours, the students took an intermission as prizes were generously awarded to participants donning the most striking costumes. All those who attended enjoyed partaking in this most festive occasion.



SENIOR CHRISTMAS PARTY

This year the Seniors followed a school tradition by gathering one night in late December to celebrate the holidays together, as a class. Decked out in their fanciest threads, they flocked to Jimmy's Allenhurst and prepared to rock the night away. As with all class functions, people were slow at first to infest the dance floor, but soon enough it was as crowded as a Haitian refugee ship. Although St. Nick failed to make an appearance, everyone was blessed with the presence of some very hip DJs who conducted enough merrymaking to put even the Grinch in the holiday spirit. The night flowed as smoothly as Santa's sled over the snow and put everyone there in a joyous mood before departing.

HOMECOMING

"Flames, Football, and Frivolity," was how Trip Kucera, President of the Student Council, summarized this year's Homecoming festivities. The sounds of music decorated the cafeteria with representations of Reggae, Disco, and Country. But the fun had just begun. The following night, students were greeted by Mr. Casey, who debuted as emcee at his first Homecoming as Athletic Director. The pep rally then moved out to the glowing bonfire, which returned after a two year absence. Sadly, the infamous exploding dummies have yet to return. The dance soon followed and because this was a night of firsts, a karaoke machine created a whole new atmosphere. How often do you get to dance to the Girl's Cross-Country team crooning "Let's Hear it for the Boy"? The court was announced and Omari Gay and Megan Collins were crowned King and Queen for a day. The next day, the classes gathered early to perfect their half-time skits while the teams met their opponents.

UNDERCLASSMEN

"Life is what happens while you're making other plans." - John Lennon

What if the tribulation of the college search didn't begin until senior year? Then junior year would be as carefree as the years before. Although their quest doesn't intensify until senior year, juniors get a good preview of the pain to come as they finally realize that grades and standardized tests can make or break an application. Their lighthearted smiles worn since junior high turn into ones of self reliance and determination

Despite the heavy burden placed upon their shoulders, juniors may bend but must never break under pressure. This pressure can cause them to lose valuable social status if it gets the best of them. Nevertheless there are many ways that they can maintain a cool rep throughout the year, such as wrecking the senior girls in the powder puff football game.

During senior year it is tolerable to crack, as many do, but until then the juniors' challenge is to keep cool under pressure if respectability is desired.

"A lot to think about- college, pressure, competition." - Andrea Buccieri

What if project adventure was never resurrected after that hurricane a couple of years ago? Then sophomores wouldn't have a chance to climb the inclined log and play hours of Tubicide as they hopefully participate in their last year of phys. ed..

After a full year of high school experience, sophomores finally become comfortable with their surroundings. They walk the halls tall and proud since their fear of upperclassmen, for the most part, has diminished. However, they must watch where they walk. After all, no one would want to step in Mr. Urich's bucket o' fetal pigs. That could get rather messy.

Some may say that the sophomores have become too comfortable (What if Ms. Comerford had control over her anarchic history classes?), but these cases are rare, however, for sophomores are no longer stupid (they went through that stage last year). They know that their ex-teacher/friend now Asst. Principal, Mr. Doliber, is keeping a close eye on them.

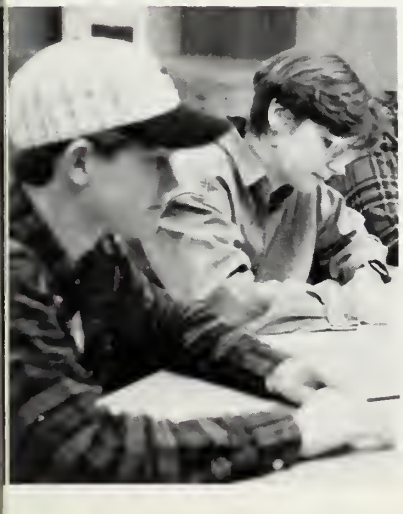
"The year came and went like a thief in the night." - John McGowan



What if freshmen weren't so uncouth? Then maybe they'd fit in with the rest of the student body, but unfortunately this is not the case. They're too old for the junior high yet too mentally undeveloped to be productive members of the Masconomet community. It's a sad situation because they do try to fit in with the rest of the school but there's always an aura of awkwardness surrounding them that sets them apart.

Fortunately, they've got each other. Together they can make the realization that they won't be on top of the hill again for another four years. But freshmen year isn't all bad news, for it also brings forth good. First of all, one can make many new friends, as classes are more amalgamated than in junior high. Freshmen can also play sports, helping some to gain acceptance by proving to the older students thay they are not as inept as they appear, and can, in fact, be capable human beings.

MR. PAARLBERG

In 1962 Masconomet was still a young and restless mass of educational potential. But it was that year when Teunis Jack Paarlberg rolled on to the scene, ready to make a difference. Nobody could have possibly imagined that he would still be here in 1993.

"If I ever wake up and say, 'oh, I have to go to school today', I'll quit teaching," says Paarlberg. But quitting isn't what the enthusiastic math teacher is doing, retiring is.

After 21 years of dedicated service at Masconomet, he has decided to say goodbye to the school and teaching. But Masco isn't simply losing a teacher, its losing a devoted servant. TJP has probably been the most active faculty member ever to trapse through the halls of Masco. He has assisted in everything ranging from officiating at track meets to umpiring the girl's softball games to being the chess team advisor. He has also shown unprecedented interests in announcing Chieftain football games as well as being a Driver Ed. instructor.

"To tell you the truth," says Paarlberg, "I'm the #1 Driver Ed. instructor at Masco, although Mr. Soucy might disagree."

The cause of TJP's retirement is not because of loss in interest of teaching. "I have mixed emotions about retiring," stresses Paarlberg. "I think that I deserve to do other things, like visit my grandchildren and travel with my wife, but I still enjoy teaching . . . I'll certainly miss the kids."

Paarlberg, who taught in E. Africa from '68-'70, also enjoyed teaching in the RenPro. "It was outstanding," says TJP. "Mr. Donavel and I are so in tuned in doing things different. Doing the same things is drudge. RenPro let students and teachers learn in different ways. I got to know students better than any other year."

And that's what TJP was best at, associating with the kids. To the students: "Here's some philosophy that I live by, Make your life fun. Enjoy it! Also maintain your appetite for knowledge."

With advice like that, you can only ask yourself . . . WHAT IF you take the number 12, add 6, divide by . . .?"

CLUBS

LANGUAGE CLUBS

"Deutsch Klub, Deutsch Klub, uber alle . . . " Well, it's not the official anthem of Masco's Germanically inclined, but it sounds pretty good. Each year the club members look forward to Oktoberfest planning, St. Nikolaus Tag parties, and the end of the year dinner. This year's club, led by German teacher Vija Skudra, plans to do some Christmas caroling, visit a museum, and, of course, watch many bizarre German films.

The French Club, led by advisor Lawrence Gregorchik and President Lindsay Russell, is probably the most "outgoing" of clubs. Last year's club held an inter-club party and this year's is planning another. The students are still talking about last year's exciting French exchange trip. This year the club has already had a bowling trip and competition and lots o' fun was had by all.

"Roosky Kloob", under the guidance of Mrs. Rasner, has been very active this year in the semi-annual "Masco-Moscow" exchange. During November, Masco was graced with the presence of eleven Russian teenagers and was surprised to learn how much like us they really are (not to mention how well they speak English).

There aren't a lot of people in the Spanish club this year, but that doesn't mean that their not involved. Completing the Spanish leg of the exchange program last year, the club is regrouping and planning many activities. Hopefully, they will go on a bilingual ski-trip and set up a Spanish tutoring program.

Masco students serve up global cuisine.

ACADEMIC TEAMS

See, Jef

Probably the most mysterious of Masco's academic teams is the Future Problem Solvers. These brave souls manage to have fun despite, or because of, Coach Dick Craig. This team also wins the "most victorious" superlative, boasting ten state titles in as many years as well as last year's international title.

It's no secret to the Masco Matheletes that their success lies in the hands of retiring teacher and coach Teunis (Jack) Paarlberg. He is optomistic about upcoming years, commenting that, "This year we have some really great freshmen. They're so energetic and powerful." Math team is not, contrary to popular belief, a haven for bespectacled brains sporting pocket protectors. Coach Paarlberg stresses "athletics and academics" because that's the way it works in the real world.

Science team is another activity which is somewhat anonymous, despite its success. Under the direction of Coach Hodsdon, Masco's budding young scientists have won the State Science Olympiad two years in a row. Science team-ers participate in three events per meet in categories ranging from "Black Box" to "Nuclear Physics" which is "really hard stuff," according to captain Cindy Bellefeuille. However, the science team has great "chemistry" and their prospects are looking good this year.

Model United Nations enjoys the largest membership of all the teams, largely due to the efforts of advisor Richard Meegan. Many team members would be proud to tell you of their ability to "handle any position diplomatically." It is a true experience to attend an actual MUN conference. From delegate dances to Boutros Boutros-Ghali and 4 A.M. fire alarms to Super Soakers, Masco's MUN teams know how to have fun.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Unbelievable as it may seem, there are times when the faculty at Masconomet fail to take control of certain issues. When this occurs there is a group of brave, young students ready to lend a hand and take over. This group is known as the Student Council!

Every Wednesday for the whole school year these dedicated and devoted members work hard to improve the school and make a difference for their fellow students. This year the Student Council has taken an even more active role than they have in the past.

"The organization is better than any other year that I've ever seen," said active member Cory Riley.

The improvements made by Student Council this year are too many to count, but we'll try right here. First, Student Council presented an all new and improved Homecoming dance. This included a flaming bonfire that even freshmen couldn't miss. When the dance moved inside the students were surprised by an amazing karaoke display that allowed them to demonstrate their musical ability.

The Student Council didn't stop after the Homecoming. They continued right into the winter season introducing an annual Christmas donation drive. All funds went to local families in need. Student Council also participated in several committees that work under the school administration, showing the versatility and wide array of talents that the members possess.

Future plans for the Student Council include, as president Trip Kucera says, "addressing the needs of the students, faculty and school as a whole."

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Although the faculty at Masco is outstanding, sometimes the students take the leadership role in order to educate not only themselves and their school but the community as well. Through various programs at Masco, these opportunities are available.

"Jefferson Forum gives you the motivation and satisfaction of helping others," says Wes Tabor, an active member of TJF.

TJF has taken an animated advancement towards helping others. Expeditions to Haven for Hunger, where students serve food to the less fortunate, or Beverly Hospital and the Hogan Center, where members spend time with mentally and physically handicapped people, are just some of the places where TJF has displayed its love and care for others. Throughout the elementary schools around the community, you can find TJF members tutoring students or simply spending the day as a Big Brother or Sister.

Peer Education is also concerned with helping the community. Judean Patten, a member of the group said: "It's not only important for educating the people who need it, but it's important to those in Peer Ed. as well. We get to learn, too!"

Peer Ed. has taken an interest in discussing and educating people on social issues that pertain to the students themselves. The group discusses everything from domestic violence to "drinking" to teen suicide. Through meetings and workshops, the students are able to learn about these problems through the group and with other schools.

But not all their work is done at meetings. The group has visited the Strongest Link, an organization created to educate people about AIDS as well as help those with the disease. The group has also made an effort to bring outside resources, such as dramas and speakers, to come help their effort to educate.

Another student group active in educating is the Student Environmental Activists. SEA has begun a challenge to overcome the lack of knowledge and concern for the environment.

"I think it's important that students get involved and educated about both the environment and the community," said Cindy Bellefaille, a staunch supporter of SEA and the environment.

SEA has taken a vital role in recycling. Its members have brought a program to the school that has helped reduce wasted products as well as helping recycling committees within the community. It has also taken part in an effort to examine a portion of the Ipswich River in order to observe the safety of the river itself and the welfare of the surrounding environment.

The National Honor Society made advances in assisting out the community, too. The NHS held the annual Blood Drive which was an extreme help to the Red Cross. The "Drive" was bigger than ever and should continue to expand over the next few years.

The NHS has also continued its tutoring system that allows any high school student to get extra help in any class.

These four groups have made a significant impact on the community. Each member takes time out their lives in order to help others. Cory Riley, a member of each of the groups, said it best by saying, "The world is a beautiful place when you give your heart to others."

MEDIA

Creativity is one aspect at Masco that is not lacking. Between journalism, broadcast television, radio and a magazine, the reporters and writers of tomorrow are given the opportunity to perform.

"The greatest difference between these clubs and the others is that it's real," says Stuart Deane, advisor of both the journalism and broadcast teams. "We don't pretend to do something, we really are journalists."

This is the attitude that Deane portrays to his journalism class. He believes it is best when the students can take control. With this control, the students design their own page in the Tritown Transcript each week. The students can be writers, editors, photographers or cartoonists. These talents blend together to create a final product."

The students also enjoy the broadcast television, where the journalists relay school news to the homerooms every morning via the Channel One televisions.

If their peers miss them on television every morning, can listen to them daily by tuning into 88.3 FM WBMT, the school's own radio station.

The station has become real popular this year. With the addition of over twenty new members, WBMT has been able to expand in different directions. New programs have been tailored to those who like different music.

"We have a lot of different stuff," says Jessica Sellountos, a member of the WBMT staff. "We play classic rock, as well as old and current Top 40. Our format is growing and because of that I think more people listen now than ever before."

Students can also get involved in the new school magazine. The magazine is actually a revival of a former magazine, headed by David Donavel, called "Solstice", but with the new staff and experience came the new name, "The Refrigerator Papers", a name that implies "the best work that Masco can produce."

Samantha Benson, along with Janet Goodfriend, advises this corp of innovative talent.

The annual magazine doesn't simply consist of stories but also various artwork and poems created by the students at Masco. Through the magazine, radio and other journalism outlets, these students are able to show that Masco isn't just a place of learning, but it is so much more!

THEATER

Theater has long been one of Masco's stronger points and this year was no exception. Thespians as well as a slew of other cast and stage crew members were led by Mr. West. Together this motley crew brought the house down with everything from a Broadway musical to a British sex farce.

A Chorus Line, the first musical of the year, was according to senior Thespian member Betsy Hopkins, "one of the most difficult shows we have ever put on" due to the complicated choreography involved. Difficult or not, everyone involved delivered a seamless, if not perfect performance.

Noises Off, a British sex farce, gave us a comical behind-the-scenes look at a production in progress. The audience got more than laughs though, because when the houselights were dimmed, negliges, boxer shorts, and love signals began a-flyin'. Creating such scandal was second nature to senior Thespian member Jon Rand - he thought the English accent was the toughest part!

Masco theater ended the year with White Lies Black Comedy and an exceptional performance of Alice's Wonderland in the Massachusetts High School Drama Festival.

BANDS

The musicians that comprise Masco's Concert Band have always been the best around. The band studies and performs many types of music from marching to symphonic. These musically inclined pupils perform quite often throughout the school year. Their major exhibitions include the Christmas Concert, the Spring Concert, and marching at both the Topsfield Fair and Memorial Day parades.

The Pep Band can always be heard belting out popular tunes at pep rallies and football games, among other events. They always succeed in creating an aura of excitement wherever they may be performing. When the Pep Band plays, people listen.

When one walks down the hall after school they often will hear some slick tunes emitting from the band room. These tunes are being played by the coolest cats around - the Masco Jazz Band. These Jazzmen partake in several competitions during the year and always come out successful. Besides their competitions, the band also has a gig at the annual Masconomet Jazz Extravaganza in February.

CHORALE

In an era full of Milli Vinillis and slick voice dub-overs, it has become increasingly difficult to distinguish the real from the fake and the talented from the not-so-talented. One need not look hard, though, to see that there is nothing fake or glossy about the Masco Chorale group. Under the direction of Lynn Shane, they have become one of Masco's busiest and most service-orientated groups.

This past December the Chorale brought holiday cheer and yuletide carols to the Twin Oaks home for senior citizens. They also visited the Liberty Tree Mall which, for uncertain reasons, was not very receptive of their holiday cheer. The group also visited Salem State College where they had the opportunity to participate in a college-level chorus class. To top off the holiday season, the Chorale brought us a wonderful holiday concert . . . and there wasn't a lip syncher in sight!

DECA

When one thinks of DECA, most likely they think of the little store located in K-Wing where they can obtain sugary yum-yums and other fine goods before and after school. The Distributive Education Club of America is much more than that, however. DECA, under the guiding light of Mr. Lauzon, consists of students enrolled in the Distributive Education class. Through operating the store, the students get hands-on experience in the field of retail merchandising. DECA is a low profit organization and the profits they do receive are spent on things such as field trips, DECA jackets, a club banquet, and charitable causes. So, when one now thinks of the club they know that the DECA experience gives students a preview of life in the retail world.

YEARBOOK

The yearbook experience can be summed up in three words: mayhem, meetings and madness. The sheer pressure of crafting Masco's most famed literary production is enough to make one do something as unadvisable as eating a whole bag of candied circus peanuts, or in rare cases, single-handedly downing a stylish candy-garnished gingerbread house.

This year's bunch of robust yearbook staffers, however, managed to defeat the odds of insanity. Hours of senseless shenanigans and lots of early '80's radio hits seemed to be their best defense. As silly as they were, the staff showed that they could make layouts and meet deadlines with the best of them.

After all was said and done and pica rulers were lain to rest, the staff agreed that hard work, cooperation and a little whip cracking from Mrs. Sanford might have had something to do with the success of the yearbook.

Does Masconomet

The program — generically called the Copernican Plan, after the astronomer Copernicus, but referred to at Masconomet as the Renaissance Program (RenPro) — was developed by Masconomet Regional School District Superintendent Joseph M. Carroll, and allows for students to take just two subjects in each of three 60-day trimesters.

Daily classes in each of the subjects are 100 minutes in length, compared to the average 45-minute classes in traditional educational programs.

"When students have a personal stake with their teacher and their work — when the classes are small enough for the kid to get to know each other, support each other and feel secure enough to take risks — when student has just two classes t concentrate on — then we ar giving them a chance to succeed And kids like to succeed."

Next year Donavel, the l other Renaissance Progra teachers and their students wi return to an exclusively trad tional structure.

It is not unusual for 79 embers of the 9th grade at Topsfield, Mass., secon- ry school to speak out in ss. Heated outbursts are t uncommon.

Although the program is open t anyone who volunteers, and include some honors students as well as regu lar students, some parents object tha it fragments the school. "To have sacred cow within the common her is impossible," said Serena Caperc nis, a member of the school baord.

The death of RenPro could

Dartmouth College:

"My personal feeling is that some of the inadequacies which we identify in undergraduates, from coast to coast, are societal inadequacies rather than inadequacies unaddressed by our secondary school establishment. That does not make them less real, in many cases, or unimportant. Your proposed approach may be just right for many of the inadequacies which we perceive, and you certainly have our best wishes as you address it."

With the latest wave of school reform nearly a decad

Nisenbaum, a Topsfield re, said, "Renpro kids take ses at a time and it is easier n to get two As than for me and pull six As in honors s."

oncern about grading

Nisenbaum, like Bellefeuille, was oncerned that the Renaissance stuents were not being graded in an quivalent fashion.

"Maybe there should be separate lass ranks for them and us," Belleeuille said.

The same things that Traditional tudents considered weaknesses in he Renaissance Program were conidered strengths by the Renaisance students.

Some parents of honors students nt in the renaissance program say e new program is not so rigorous id therefore honors credits should nt be given to any of its participants.

Only 42 percent of 17-year-olds can rea well enough to understand and explai a wide variety of topics. Only 40 percer can analyze scientific procedures an data. Less than half understand bas historical terms and relationships.

Students seem to agree. Not one student, during a 100-minute English class last week, gazed out the large window overlooking the soccer field, despite the sunny weather.

In the renaissance program, he can teach his way. For almost two hours, Mr. Donavel, whom students call "Dave," sits in a circle with the class, listening to his 12 students as they read aloud and discuss their weekly essays, their young voices rising above the rat-tat-tat of the classroom's electric heater.

orce long look at learning

We are concerned that our children will pass their courses but fail their futures because of this experimental educational program! A true evaluation of any educational program takes many years. The substantial energy, money and time being spent on Ren Pro and its evaluation would be far better expended by strengthening the existing traditional programs for all students at Masconomet. If you share these concerns, here's what you can do!

Very truly yours,

OUTSIDE SPORTS

Even though Masconomet is often considered a perfect place, almost a "promise land", there are some things that the school does not offer. This is why a select few at Masco decide to venture outside the walls of the school to experience life on their own.

Sports are the number one reason why students choose to participate outside of Masco. Even though the school is full of glorious opportunities ranging from swimming to cheerleading to lacrosse, there are some activities that Masco does not offer.

Horse riding is one of the most popular sports outside of Masco that is not offered. Many students, including Jen Reed, Shelly Jasse, Kara Riley and Brenda MacPherson, decide to saddle up and enjoy whenever they have a spare moment. Whether going out for a Sunday ride or participating in a competition, these athletes simply appreciate the sport.

"It's my goal to be an international competitor," says senior Jen Reed, as she prepares to take the next year off to ride.

Another sport popular outside of Masco is synchronized swimming. When one thinks of this sport a vivid picture of the Saturday Night Live skit always comes to mind. Although, one might often overlook the effort and beauty that are involved in this aquatic entertainment.

Senior Briana Mathers, a synchronized swimmer for five years, says, "I've always liked being in the water, and this sport is so creative. Different music and choreography gives it a lot of variation."

Sheri Porter also is involved with an outside sport. After eight years and achieving a black belt, Porter has made karate a favorite hobby of the past. Not only is she a student of the martial art, but she also teaches.

"Karate had a unique form that I couldn't ignore," says the senior kung-fu master. "It's like no other sport. It's hard work and keeps me physically fit as well as mentally."

There are many sports out there and Masco can't support them all, but the students have taken it upon themselves to get involved. Jen Reed puts it best by saying, "I'm glad I do a sport outside of school. It's fun and plus it gets me out of gym."

CHEERLEADING

Supporting an impressive football team this year was an equally impressive cheerleading team led by captains Sheri Porter and Sherri Fiore. Much of the team's success could be acredited to the dedication and hardwork of cheerleaders.

There was as much action on the sidelines as there was on the basketball court this year. Basketball cheerleaders cheered through fouls as well as slamdunks. In the end, captains Sheri Porter and Stacey Coffin were glad to have led the team through a successfull basketball season.

This year's team of hockey cheerleaders were a group of winners according to those in attendance of the hockey games. Morale and spirits were high thanks to the leadership of captains Sheri Porter and Stacey Coffin.

All the cheerleading teams agreed that their seasons would have been less than excellent without the direction of coach Carrie Bonfanti.

Their t-shirts summed it up best - You can play ball with the boys or run with the men. These "men" hit the pavement and ran off with the CAL title finishing the season undefeated, 10-0. Not only that, but they continued the chase and went on to place sixth in the state, fourth in the Northern Areas, and second at the Catholic Memorial invitational.

"The driving force behind our closely knit squad was the pinnacle of leadership and guiding light of Coach Ray Sinnott", said Captain Julian Orbanes. Orbanes, along with other captains Sean Franey, and Corey Manual, led the team to a season of unexpected success. Good luck to next year's captains Brian Deveny, Mike Crocker, and Jay Trembly.

LOIS- Would you look at that face??

"There's nothing like being a bunny. It's not just the name of the team but the dedication and friendships that go with it", says co-captain Jenn Barry. Along with co-captain Kristen Holmgren, Barry led the lady runners of Masconomet to an extremely close second place finish just one point behind CAL champs Newburyport. Coach Casey said that "The overall record was a very pleasant surprise." However, the 7-1-0 finish wasn't the only surprise. Julie Bruno, who just a year ago was ranked 21st on the team, became one of the team's top runners and went on to be named the Cape Ann League Runner of the Year. The team also boasted other very talented runners such as the aforementioned Jenn Barry who placed 50th in the All-State meet. Also, Barry, Bruno, and Amy Sousa all earned a spot on the All-League team. Next year's crew looks to be very competitive and is certain to carry on the tradition of Bunnies' Pride under the leadership of tri-captains Julie Bruno, Cara Fauci, and Lindsay MacAuley.

FIELD HOCKEY

"Pain is temporary. Pride is forever". A team should be a group of players that come together and work as one. That is exactly what this year's field hockey team did. Whether it was shown in memorable moments of games, like Cory Riley's time in goal, and Kara and Tricia's saves of the day, or Hannah and Liz's ongoing leadership, everyone gave it their all to make this group be exactly that; a team.

FOOTBALL

The mighty Chieftains exploded onto the Cape Ann League scene with an impressive 5-0 start; a feat not repeated since 1976. Under the guidance of Coaches Pugh and Puleo and led by co-captains Cliff Lemire and Jesse Tremblay, the team finished the season 6-4. This was the first time that the team had back to back winning seasons since 1968 and 1969. The major highlight of the year was the big win over a strong Lynnfield squad. The convincing 29-14 victory was made more special by the fact that it was the first time in over ten years that Masco had defeated Lynnfield. The game illustrated that the Chieftains were for real and the winning record of the previous year was by no means a fluke. Now with two winning seasons under their belt and an outstanding youth program you can be sure that the Chieftains, led next year by tri-captains Dan Ginley, Heath Goudreau, and Tad Leblonde, will be winning for a long time.

GOLF

The Masconomet Golf Team, which has long been a perennial powerhouse in the Cape Ann League, kept the winning tradition more than alive this year while under the tutelage of Coaches Roger Lauzon and Norman Soucy. A tremendous 16-3-1 record earned the team a close second place finish behind CAL champs Hamilton/Wenham in this year's bid for the crown. The two hard fought victories over Triton and North Andover in the last dual-meet of the year have been cited as the highlights of the season by many team members, as these triumphs allowed the golfers to take possession of second place on the last day of the regular season. The team's winning ways didn't stop there, though, as co-captains Kevin McLoughlin and Chad Dodd led the team to an impressive sixth place finish at the state meet.

Next year's team will certainly miss the presence of departing seniors Kevin McLoughlin and Tim O'Keefe, but newly elected co-captains Chad Dodd and Jeff Cahill will undoubtedly preserve the excellence of Chieftain Golf.

BOYS' SOCCER

The boys' soccer team finished another great season ending with an impressive 16-2-2 record and a CAL championship.

"We had a stellar season, winning the CAL and making it to states," said captain Brad Trull. "It would have been nice to win the whole thing, but we can't complain with what we accomplished."

Masco can always find pride in its soccer teams, and this year continued the legacy. Coached by Len Emmons, the team provided excitement throughout the season until the Chieftains were knocked out of the state tournament by Burlington after an entertaining, yet disappointing shootout.

GIRLS' SOCCER

Kickssa, Kickssa, Kickssa"; this three word chant of the varsity girls' soccer team is not the "secret of their success", but one definition of their 1992 season. Behind the fabulous leadership of seniors Andi Robinson, Kirsten Johnson and Heather Shields, as well as the talent of Jenny Daly and CAL Player of the Year Becky Blaesar, the girls remain Eastern Mass. Champs for the second consecutive year with a record of 22-1!

This is a year the girls will never forget because they are the first team in the history of Masco girls' soccer to have an undefeated untied regular season. In fact, the majority of seniors on the team made it to the state finals three out of their fours years playing soccer. The strong group of underclassmen possessed by the team not only aided in the many successes this year, but are sure to carry on the flying colors of girls' soccer in the years to come. Best of luck to next year's captains Becky Blaesar, Sarah Lodewick, and Betsy Smallman, well as the rest of the Chieftains!

VOLLEYBALL

Even though it may not be reflected in their record, it can't be said that the girls' volleyball team didn't have the skills.

A team loaded with talent found it difficult to win a lot of games, making for a frustrating, emotional season. The record does, however, reflect the inexperience of a young team. A starting team of two seniors, one junior, and three sophomores just didn't have the court sense to be a winning team.

Hopefully, this rebuilding season will lead to a successful improvement in the years to come. By allowing the younger players to grow and learn, Masco's volleyball will return to the powerhouse it once was in the CAL.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

This year's basketball team was filled with new experiences. First, Mr. Pugh took the reins from Mr. Casey and coached the boys to an 8-12 season. The squad itself was also young and inexperienced, with only three returning starters. However, this youth brought both enthusiasm and vitality as seen in both matchups against Amesbury and an explosive season-ender against Pentucket. Pugh's Chieftains faced tough Cape Ann League competition, but led by captains Cliff Lemire and Brad Trull, the team held it's own. This season was a learning one for both coach and players, but next year, with a few games under their belts, Coach Pugh and his team will be a dominant figure in the CALs.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

This year's girls' basketball team enjoyed one of the most successful seasons ever. The team won the Cape Ann League title as they also had an undefeated league record. A remarkable regular season record of 19-1 got the team the number one seed for the Division 2 North playoffs.

As being one of the school's best teams ever, it was also one of the youngest teams ever as the team's lineup not only included several sophomores and freshmen, but also a seventh grader in Brianne Stepherson. Many members of the team received special honors. Captains Jodi Goodhue and Heather Shields were named league all-stars while Catey Peters, Becky Blaeser, and the aforementioned Stepherson were named to the Cape Ann All-League team. Also, Blaeser won the Cape Ann League Player of the Year award.

HOCKEY

After being predicted to finish 3rd in the CAL, the Chieftain hockey team did just that, finishing with a winning record of 9-4-5. The team also managed to qualify for the state tournament in a dramatic fashion, defeating CAL rival North Andover in the final regular season game.

"We had a good season," remarked assistant captain Adam Ayer. "If we played the first half of the season like we did the second, we would have been a much better team."

The Chieftains, coached by Bob Driscoll, supplied its supporting fans with several highlights, including an amazing tie against the powerhouse from Amesbury. Offensively, the team was led by all-stars Adam Ayer and Dave Symmes, as well as assistant captains Matt LeColst and Brian Kelley. Juniors Dan Marcotte and Andy Gaudette were significant factors and should continue to be so next year.

Defensively, the team was led by all-star goalie Luke Pierce and solid defensemen Brian Coffin and Ryan Romito. Captain Dave Symmes was also elected to the All-League team, an honor that adds to the fabulous season experienced by the Chieftains.

What was the highlight of the season?

Jeff: "The 5-5 tie against Amesbury."

Matt: "Beating Amesbury and making it as far as we did in states."

Brian: "Beating Amesbury in the first round of the state tournament."

GIRLS INDOOR TRACK

The girls' indoor track team came away with an impressive 7-1 record as well as the Northern Area Championship title during the 92/93 season. The five seniors, Kirsten Johnson (captain), Jenn Barry (captain), Andi Robinson (captain), Nancy Longworth, and Kirsten Holmgren as well as Mr. Cavalarro's guidance helped lead the team to their victories with experience and leadership. Junior Sarah Lodewick scored vital points for the team in the 600 and the shot put, also, unexpected talent was found in the mile with underclassmen Kelly Coder and Jolen Hawkswell. Jenn Barry in the 1000 and Kirsten Johnson in the hurdles were both undefeated in dual meets. Helping the Lady Chieftains with the Northern Area title were first place finishes by Jenn Barry in the 1000, Andi Robinson in the 400 and high jump, and Amy Sousa in the 2 mile. Another notable performance was run by Amy Sousa during the Freshmen-Sophomore meet where she won and crushed the meet record by 23 seconds.

"Next year we wish the best of luck and continued success," the tri-captains say.

Which meet was your favorite?

Nancy: "Northern Areas was my favorite meet because we all ran well and we WON!!"

Kirsten: "Billerica because it came down to the relay. We almost lost because one of our runners fell but she made up for it with an incredible run."

Jenn: "The Lowell meet was best. We won with a victory in the relay and we won on their track!"

BOYS' TRACK

For the second consecutive year, the Chieftain track team reigned supreme in the Greater Lynn League and ran away with the league title. The team proved to be far superior to the competition as each meet was won in a most convincing manner. The team's dominance can be attributed to its depth as it didn't just have many first place winners, but many second and third place finishes as well, in nearly every event. Under the direction of the dignified Coach Carletti, and led by co-captains John Nikitin and Terry Reed, the Chieftains took no prisoners as they also triumphed in both the League Meet and the Relay Meet. As usual, several team members went on to post-season competition and fared quite well. In the state meet Sean Franey easily won the mile, the two mile relay team consisting of Julian Orbanes, Brian Deveny, Steve Brochu, and Franey placed third, Richard Johnson captured sixth place in the shot put, and Jim Miller came in eighth in the sixty meter dash. The future appears bright for the team as it is loaded with talent from the underclassmen and it is surely destined for many more league titles.

Sean Franey: "The 50 because I think that's all he could run."

John Nikitin: "The two mile because he always says to suck it up and you can do it, but the race is hell."

Richard Johnson: "High jump. It would be funny seeing him do the layout over the bar."

BOYS' SKI TEAM

The boys' ski team had a bit of a rough season this year, finishing fifth overall in the league. This year was supposed to be a rebuilding year, though, and the boys displayed their enormous potential by capturing second place at the year-end Interscholastic Race. Great times were turned in all season long by captains Dave Neskey and Rob Holloway, juniors Chris Rundlett and Cliff Pracht, as well as surprise freshman Bert Stocking. The team awaits five incoming freshmen next season, among them Will Carey, and Coach Worth says, "Things look great for next year!" In the meantime, the boys enjoyed the excitement of many close meets, watching the Prep finish eighth at Interscholastics, and many trips to a questionably sober Papa Gino's.

GIRLS' SKI TEAM

Last year's state runners-up easily won the North Shore Ski League for a third consecutive year, losing only one (very controversial) race to our archrivals from North Andover. Throughout the season, we enjoyed the efforts of our small-but-loyal cheering section, Tony Lena's pizza, and the gates on the knoll. We had a flawless performance at Interscholastics, taking three of the top five places. This year's state championship promises to be an exciting one and there will even be real snow on the ground! Tricaptains Heather MacLean, Aubrey Spath, and Lisa Buonorosa will be joined by junior Gia Ventola and better-than-ever sophomore Meghan Carey on the slopes at Berkshire East. We also owe a lot of our success to strong performances from veterans Amanda Jones and Keri Nicholson as well as promising newcomers Paige Washburn and Laurie Rundlett. Coach Paul Worth says, "They've just been stupendous. I really feel that this is the year we're gonna win it."

SWIMMING AND DIVING

It has taken a mere three years for the swimming and diving team to keep its promise - "the start of a winning tradition". This year's team has become a formidable powerhouse in the Greater Boston League with an impressive 8-1 record, losing only to another new squad, Hamilton-Wenham. Captain Reed Newland cited the team's dedication as a factor in their success. Indeed, how many other teams wake up at four o'clock in the morning to begin their practices? The team finished second in their league and sent many swimmers on to the sectional meet.

What was it like getting up at 4:30 AM?

Leigh: "After a while you ride the "tired high" which carries you through the season."

Matt: "It's hard at first but then it gets easier."

Reed: "The first couple of weeks were hard but your body gets used to it."

WRESTLING

Even though young and virtually inexperienced, the wrestling team had themselves an extremely successful season. With only three seniors and numerous underclassmen, the Chieftains overcame their youth to finish second in the CAL with an impressive 19-2 record.

"Everyone put out as much effort as they could," said senior captain Jeff Prouty. "We just didn't have enough to bring in the title."

The team was led by senior captains Prouty, Zakk Rose and Erik Dziadul. With their contributions and the superior coaching of Dennis Puleo, Masco experienced many highlights, one being the trouncing of rival North Andover. The Chieftains were in contention for the CAL title throughout the season, losing to only Hamilton- Wenham by a minimal six points.

Other standouts for Masconomet were junior superstar Chad Dodd, wrestling in the 145 weight class, who finished undefeated after the regular season. Wrestling in the 119 weight class, sophomore John Perotti was also a great benefactor for Masco's success.

Prouty, wrestling in the 135 weight class, Dziadul in the 160 and Rose in the 171, all made it to the state tournament, along with teammates Dodd and Perotti. Junior Chad Kocur made it as well as an alternate. No state titles were won, but Masco had a great season and should be even better in the years to come.

THESE ARE DAYS

Here I sit at 3:30 AM the night before this, the FINAL DEADLINE, and I've just now realized there's no way to sum up all of high-school or even senior year on one page. Hell, we couldn't even cover everything in the whole yearbook. But the book is done and now I see that all the chaos, the marathon meetings, superlative controversies, deep discussions on men with no legs walking by or squatting vs. sitting, 80's mix tapes played time and time again, and overall "Diehard" committent have paid off. Good luck next year Danielle and Jenn- you'll need all you can get.

When you finally see this book it will be graduation. The days of high-school are over. Ren-Pro, the day the school caught on fire, proms, Frolics, Gossip circles, Zero Tolerance, Styles Pond and Janis, Project Adventure, best friends, worst enemies, college acceptances/rejections and even the halls of Masconomet will soon be memories. Congratulations Class of '93! We've all grown up together and it's time to move on- Best of luck to you all . . . " . . . and the goodbye makes the journey harder still . . . "

These are days you'll remember. Never before and never since, I promise, will the whole world be warm as this. And as you feel it, you'll know it's true that you are blessed and lucky. It's true that you are touched by something that will grow and bloom in you.

These are days you'll remember. When May is rushing over you with desire to be part of the miracles you see in every hour. You'll know it's true that you are blessed and lucky.

It's true that you are touched by something that will grow and bloom in you.

These are days you might fill with laughter until you break. These days you might feel a shaft of light make its way across your face. And when you do you'll know how it was meant to be. See the signs and know their meaning. It's true, you'll know how it was meant to be. Hear the signs and know they're speaking to you.

WHAT IF WE COULDN'T DECIDE?

Once upon a time there was a story of a young bird. Every year the young bird would watch as mother and father bird would prepare for the upcoming winter. However, this year the young bird was old enough to move away from home and live on his own.

Confused on what to do for the cold and inevitable winter, the young bird went to his mother to ask her for advice.

"Mother", cried the young bird, "how should I prepare for the winter that is so quickly approaching?"

Being a typical mother bird, she responded, "I don't think you're ready to face this winter on your own. I think you should stay with us until next year."

Telling his mother that he would consider her advice, the young bird left the nest to find an answer to his problem. As he walked through the forest he pondered his options, trying to think what he should do. Then it hit him; "I'll see Mr. Owl. He'll know what to do.", and off he went.

Mr. Owl was the wisest and most respected bird in the forest. The young bird flew through the woods until he reached the great oak tree where Mr. Owl lived.

"Mr. Owl," cried the young bird, "I don't know what to do for this cold and approaching winter. Will you help me?"

Mr. Owl looked at the young bird and remembered what it was like to be young. He then asked, "What if you live with your parents another year and let them do the work?"

The young bird replied, "I guess I could, but I really think I'm ready to grow up and find things out for myself."

Mr. Owl smiled and asked, "What if you migrated and came back in the summer?

The young bird replied again, "I considered that, but I wouldn't know where to go. I've never done this before."

Mr. Owl grinned once again, continuing his questioning, "What if you stay here in the forest and make your own nest for the winter?"

The young bird, getting a little frustrated, said, "I thought of that too, but I wouldn't know how much food to gather."

Mr. Owl went on asking several more questions before the young bird finally grew upset and said, "Mr. Owl, why can't you simply give me an answer? You are the wisest and most respected bird in the forest. I've always admired you. I thought you could help me."

Mr. Owl, still smiling, returned his complaint with this: "Life, my dear young bird, is like Family Feud. Sometimes people can't give you the answers and you have to go out on your own."

The young bird stared at the wise, old bird and said, "I guess you won't help me, you crazy, old fool. I'll just figure it out for myself."

The young bird flew off angry, ignorant of the valuable information he had just learned, and do you know what he did? He made his own decision and grew up to become the wisest, most respected owl in the forest.

CASEY'S BUNNIES!

WORK THE HILLS - CLOSE THE GAP! - YOU KIDS ARE GOOD! WHO'S YOUR HAIRDRESSER? → BRIGHT-EYED AND BUSHYTAILED ☺ RUN WITH CONFIDENCE A LIL DASH OF SALT, NOT A BLIZAAD! GO LIKE HELL - HOOKER PANTS - SOX & GLOVES? YOU GOT A HUGGER? WHERE DO WE GET THESE WIER DOS? BUNNIES PRIDE! IT MEANS YOU LIKE THE SMELL OF CIGARS, YOU EAT LOTS OF PASTA, YOU NEVER GIVE UP, AND YOU NEVER EVER LOOK BACK. ACHOO! WHOA PACEMAKER! BETTER THAN JENNY CRAIG. WE GOT SOME MAJOR PROBLEMS HERE! BROWN-EYED GIRL. AH, GIRLS CAN WE STRETCH? "YOU HAVE TO MAKE THE MIND RUN THE BODY" ITS ALL MENTAL LADIES. — NO MENTAL HANGOVERS. — HERE COMES HELEN KELLA. HELLO?? * THIS IS NOT THE PROM, WALK FOR HUNGA, OR THE 4H CLUB — THIS IS IT - THIS IS CROSSCOUNTRY. YOU'RE NOT MISS AMERICA, YOU ARE A BUNNY — AND REMEMBER ONCE YOU ARE A BUNNY, YOU'RE ALWAYS A BUNNY.

THANKS MR CASEY, WE LOVE YOU.
WELL, WHEN YOU GOTTA GO, YOU GOTTA GO / OR....
OK READY GIRLS? - 1-2-3-WOOO!

GOOD LUCK NEXT YEAR GUYS!
WE'LL MISS YOU! ♥ Senior Bunnies 1993.
